

Editorial

In the editorial of Hermes No. 9 we promised our readers that each new issue of Hermes always would “include a thematic section of articles dealing more thoroughly and in greater detail with topics concerning linguistics in general and LSP research in particular”.

We therefore regret to announce that for various reasons the planned thematic section on “the language of news media” will not appear in this issue. We sincerely hope that one of our later issues will see a section on this theme. The following two numbers of Hermes (No. 11 and No. 12) will include thematic sections on “intercultural communication” and “translation”.

