

Contributors

GABOR CSEPREGI is currently vice-president (academic and research) and Professor of Philosophy at the Université de Saint-Boniface in Winnipeg, Canada. He is also adjunct professor at the Faculty of Philosophy of Laval University in Québec, Canada. He is the former editor of the journal Science et Esprit. He is the author of The Clever Body, published by the University of Calgary Press in 2006, and over fifty articles, reviews, and essays on education, music, and sport.

NICHOLAS DAVEY is Professor of Philosophy having served as the Dean of Humanities at the University of Dundee for the last six years. He has published widely in the field of Continental Philosophy, aesthetics and hermeneutic theory. His book, Unquiet Understanding: Gadamer's Philosophical Hermeneutics (2006), is published with the State University Press of New York. His forthcoming book Unfinished Worlds: Hermeneutics, Aesthetics and Gadamer, will appear with Edinburgh University Press. Present research concerns "Humanities in Question: A Defense of the Humanities".

CLAES ENTZENBERG is Associate Professor of Aesthetics, at Department of Philosophy at Uppsala University. He has published books and articles on Philosophy of Art, Interpretation and Metaphor, and Literary Theory. His most recent books are Art from Death Originated (2013); Grounds of Representation: An Essay on a Dilemma in the Fiction of Jorge Luis Borges and Samuel Beckett (2007); Enfranchisement of Interpretation (forthcoming).

BENTE LARSEN is Professor of Art history, Department of Philosophy, Classics, History of Art and Ideas, University of Oslo.

JUKKA MIKKONEN is a Postdoctoral Researcher in Philosophy at the School of Social Sciences and Humanities at the University of Tampere, Finland. He is mainly interested in the philosophy of literature and philosophical issues in literary theory.

SEVERIN SCHROEDER is Reader in Philosophy at the University of Reading. He is the author of three books on the philosophy of Wittgenstein: a monograph on the private language argument (Das Privatsprachen-Argument, Schöningh 1998), Wittgenstein: The Way Out of the Fly-Bottle (Polity 2006), and Wittgenstein lesen (Frommann-Holzboog 2009). He is the editor of Wittgenstein and Contemporary Philosophy of Mind (Palgrave 2001), and Philosophy of Literature (Wiley-Blackwell 2010). He is currently working on Wittgenstein's philosophy of mathematics.

CECILIA SJÖHOLM is Professor of Aesthetics at Södertörn University. She has a PhD in philosophy from Radboud University in Nijmegen, Holland and a PhD in Comparative Literature from Stockholm University. Her books include Aisthesis: Estetikens historia, vol. 1, edited with Sara Danius and S-O Wallenstein (Thales, 2012); Translatability, edited with Sara Arrhenius and Magnus Bergh (Bonniers, 2011); Kristeva and the Political (Routledge, 2005); The Antigone Complex: Ethics and the Invention of Feminine Desire, PhD diss. (Stanford University Press, 2004); Föreställningar om det omedvetna: Stagnelius, Ekelöf and Norén, PhD diss. (Symposium, 1995); Ensam och pervers, with Sara Arrhenius (Bonnier Alba, 1995). Her research interests are currently focused on issues in phenomenology and aesthetics, with a particular view on the history of aesthetics and its relation to politics.

AARON SMUTS is an Assistant Professor in the philosophy department at Rhode Island College. He earned his PhD in philosophy at the University of Wisconsin-Madison, where he also studied film. His interests range across a wide variety of topics in ethics, the philosophy of art, and general value theory. He has published over two dozen articles in a variety of books and academic journals, including: Philosophical Studies, American Philosophical Quarterly, Ethical Theory and Moral Practice, the Stanford Encyclopedia of Philosophy, Midwest Studies in Philosophy, Philosophy Compass, Pacific Philosophical Quarterly, Religious Studies, the Southern Journal of Philosophy, and the Journal of Aesthetics and Art Criticism.

ZOLTÁN SOMHEGYI is a Hungarian art historian and holds a PhD in Aesthetics. Currently he is Assistant Professor at the Faculty of Architecture of Izmir University, Turkey. He is specialized in eighteenth and nineteenth century arts and art theory, having written his PhD diss. on German Romanticism. He curates exhibitions and participates in international art projects. He is the author of two books, twelve catalogues, and more than two hundred articles, critiques, essays and art fair reviews. www.zoltansomhegyi.com.

ANDERS TROELSEN is Associate Professor of Art History at Aarhus University and is working on a book on pictorial analysis and a project concerning the skyscraper city. His publications include: Mod modernismen: Analyser af moderne kunst (1994), Det filmiske verdensteater: Omkring Peter Greenaway (with Carsten Thau, 1994), Synsvinkler på skulpturen: Antologi om skulpturanalyse (ed., 2002), Ekfrasens former: Billedet i teksten (ed. with Cecilie Harrits, 2006), "På hjemmefronten: Thomas Bang, Ingvar Cronhammar og Poul Ingemann i grænselandet", in Langsomt hen mod udkanterne af det forgangne (catalogue book, Sønderborg Slot, 2012).