

---

About the Authors

Susanne Bangert is currently a postdoc at the Institute of Art History, Aarhus University, in affiliation with Fuglsang Kunstmuseum, Denmark. Her research investigates romantic landscape painting, specifically its role in the formation of regional and national identity. She has worked at both fine art and cultural history museums in Denmark, and at the Ashmolean Museum, Oxford. Her publications reflect her research interests in national identity including history of collecting and history of archaeology, nineteenth-century studies, museum education, and Byzantine art. She holds a PhD in art history from Copenhagen University and an MPhil in Byzantine studies from Oxford University.

Aarhus University, Faculty of Arts/Department of Communication and Culture
Langelandsgade 139, 8000 Aarhus C, Denmark
sb@cc.au.dk

Uffe Hansen (1933–2016) was Associate Professor of German and a Reader in comparative literature at the University of Copenhagen.

Philipp Hunnekuhl gained his PhD from Queen Mary University of London in 2012 and is a Fellow of the German Research Foundation in the Department of English and American Studies at the University of Hamburg, and a Visiting Fellow of the Queen Mary Centre for Religion and Literature in English. He is a member of the international Crabb Robinson Editorial Project, the editor of The Early Diaries of Henry Crabb Robinson (Oxford University Press, forthcoming), and an assistant editor of The Hazlitt Review. His journal articles so far have focused on Hazlitt, Coleridge, Charles and Mary Lamb, and Crabb Robinson, and his monograph, entitled Henry Crabb Robinson: Romantic Comparatist, is currently in preparation. He is also a committee member of the Hazlitt Society, web officer of the Charles Lamb Society, and a member of the German Association for the Study of English (Anglistenverband) and the British Association for Romantic Studies.

Überseering 35, Postfach #23, 22297 Hamburg, Germany philipp.hunnekuhl@uni-hamburg.de

Cecilia Wadsö Lecaros is a Senior Lecturer of English Literature at Lund University. Her genre study The Victorian Governess Novel (2001) is based on a comprehensive set of nineteenth-century novels and the contemporary debate on female education and paid employment. Within the field of nineteenth-century studies, she has also carried out research on the manifestation of nineteenth-century self-improvement issues such as time management and punctuality in fiction and non-fiction. She is currently investigating the introduction and translation of British social-reform literature in Sweden. Her current research topics also include academic writing and the teaching of writing.

Centre for Languages and Literature, Lund University Box 201, 221 00 Lund, Sweden cecilia.wadso-lecaros@englund.lu.se

Peter Brix Søndergaard is Associate Professor of Art History in the Department of Communication and Culture. He has published on subjects such as Rococo painting, German Romanticism (the Nazarenes, Ph. O. Runge, and C. D. Friedrich), E. Manet, product design, fashion, and film.

Aarhus University, Faculty of Arts/Department of Communication and Culture
Langelandsgade 139, 8000 Aarhus C, Denmark
kunpb@cc.au.dk

Tim van Gerven is a PhD candidate at the University of Amsterdam. His research focuses on Scandinavianism as a cultural movement and is primarily concerned with the interactions of this cultural strand with the nation-building processes in Denmark, Norway, and Sweden. He has also been involved in the ERNiE-project (Encyclopedia of Romantic Nationalism in Europe) of the Study Platform of Interlocking Nationalisms (SPIN).

Amsterdam School for Regional, Transnational and European Studies (ARTES) Kloveniersburgwal 48, 1012 CX Amsterdam, The Netherlands t.w.j.vangerven@uva.nl